

Shelly Egan

Shelly Egan, a graduate of the University of Scranton and Marywood University, is an elementary school principal with 22 years of experience within a school environment and a trainer for Restorative Practices.

For the past eight years, Ms. Egan has been training educators on implementing Restorative Practices in their classroom.