

Evett Barham

Evett Barham is a PK-12 coach and consultant for FranklinCovey Education | Leader in Me. Over the past 25 years she has spent her educational career working across the nation and in the middle of Cherokee Nation serving schools and their communities.

Evett began her career as a math and science teacher in Oklahoma teaching 7th through 12th graders and then centered her passion around leadership development.

As a secondary educator/practitioner, she has been a part of the development of Leader in Me High School model. She is dedicated to the process and loves watching the self-discovery within each person. Evett loves to partner with students, schools and organizations to live out the Leader in Me to achieve their own targeted results.

Evett lives in Pryor, Oklahoma with her husband, three daughters, and her two grandchildren. She loves learning through reading, camping, traveling, and spending time with her family.
